Dedication

To Mother and Dad who saw the need

Paid the taxes so we could read

Helped the teachers plant the seed

Of education - Thanks!

Without our folks where would we be?

They opened our eyes so we could see

And now we're their posterity

For good or bad - Thanks!

They groan when from home work they shirk

And then when it wasn't done in ink

They said, "You never stop to think"

And they were right, so - Thanks!

But after all that strife and pain

To prove it wasn't all in vain

We would express this thought again,

Thanks, Mom and Dad - Thanks!

Class Prophecy

It is the year 2000 and we are on a tour of the country. As we sail along in our space-ship at 10,000 M.P.H. we see a huge establishment on the earth. As we draw near, we see it is the nationally famous sputnik factory, headed by WITHOLD KREGE. In the office we see his secretary, SHARON BOYER with her feet on her desk, sleeping very soundly. In the calculating room we see SHARON MEISINGER operating Univac the electronic brain. Then we talk to his head engineer, ALAN FISHER. Who should walk up at this time but the Head of Destruction at the Sputnik Factory, ELMER STOUT. As we leave the factory we find Alan Fisher's secretary, RUTH STRAWBRIDGE, eating her lunch. We rent a car to tour the country, hoping to see some of our old friends. In the next town we find LOUISE HAMANN, a school teacher, just coming home from school. Just on the edge of town we see MRS. SANDRA LONG bringing her children home from school. She tells us that JERRY NEWLUN is a mechanic in a big garage down town. He specializes in hopping up Volkswagons. In the next country, we find three large farms, operated by LARRY GERRIETTS, JAMES WALKER, and GARY WEYHRICH. We talk to Larry and James for a while. Then as we are visiting Gary, someone falls off a roof near-by. He tells us it is his carpenter, DALE ARY. After talking to Dale, we head back for our space-ship and blast off. Someone suggest supper on the moon, it is agreed, and we set our course.
